$500,000 SPENT FOR WOOD IN OHIO PRIMARY CANVAS, IS CHARGE OF HIS RIVALS

One Statement Places the Sum as High as $750,000,
but That Is Discredited.

DENIAL BY WOOD MEN.

Collector Quoted as Saying
He Always Asked for $10,000 and Got It.

By Lindsay Denison.
(Special Staff Correspondent of The Evening World.)

COLUMBUS, O., May 7.—A published statement attributed to the headquarters of Senator Warren G. Harding of Ohio in his campaign for the Republican Presidential nomination charges the managers of Gen. Leonard Wood's candidacy with spending $750,000 in the primary campaign which ended April 27. Nothing is more certain than that the victor who leaves the Harding Ohio headquarters after talking comparative expenditures in the primaries comes away feeling that the Harding people believe the Wood people spent from $400,000 to $600,000, although W. W. Halsey, State manager for Harding and clerk of the Ohio Senate, definitely repudiates the $750,000 suggestion.

Except from Sherman Eagle, State manager for Leonard Wood, and his associates, the very lowest figure set for the Wood primary expenses by the most experienced politicians in this center of Ohio politics (and no Ohio politician is in the kindergarten class who has been at the game long) is $250,000.

Men high in Democratic councils who are close to the Governor (who carefully refrains from mentioning any figures in his statement on the matter to The Evening World) tell you the Governor's information is that the sum is very much nearer $500,000 than $250,000.

In answer to the question, "How could such a sum be spent in an eight weeks' improvised campaign?" a man not very far from Harding headquarters fotted down these items:

Headquarters	$16,000
Field "workers" and "expenses"	32,000
Advertising (newspaper)	100,000
Advertising (billboard and poster)	30,000
Cash and sent to counties	150,000
Postage on headquarters circulars	25,000
Anti-Harding Railway-men's Club	50,000
Anti-Harding Craftsmen's Club	5,000
Farm Defense League	12,000
Printing	5,000
Circulars and postage furnished from National Wood Committee, Chicago	25,000

Total $450,000. But the man who furnished the figures would not say they were based on anything more than his sense of what political disbursements must amount to if effective results are to be obtained in Ohio in a situation like that of last month.

Eagle says that the biggest single item in his list of disbursements was that for advertising in newspapers at established rates, letting the people know Gen. Wood was a candidate and setting forth the names of authorized Wood delegates, and that this item ran to a little over $37,000. Eagle offered to open the books of the Crumline Advertising Agency (which he said handled all his newspaper business) to The Evening World; but the head of the firm was in New York and the clerk in charge

WOOD DISCREDITS
REPORTS OF MONEY
EXPENDED IN OHIO

"Can't Afford to Use Such Sums,"
He Says—One Manager Places
Fund at $150,000.

"When shown statements of huge amounts expended by his managers in the Ohio campaign, Gen. Wood said to-day at the Harvard Club:

"I know of no such amounts of money spent in my behalf. In fact we can't afford any such sums as mentioned by our opponents. There are no corporations interested in our campaign and all our money comes from people who are enthusiastic in the cause. The campaign in Ohio was conducted in a clean upright manner and we have nothing to hide."

Col. Thomas W. Miller, Eastern Campaign Manager, said when shown The Evening World story:

"The mention of such amounts as $500,000 is absurd and ridiculous—no such sums of money were spent. A proper estimate of our expenditures would be about $150,000 or less. With Norman Gould I have handled all the campaign money for the Eastern States and I can frankly state we are not accustomed to such sums as $500,000."

WILL WED HENDRIX TO-NIGHT IN SPITE OF ACTRESS'S SUIT

Miss Terry Ignores "Dresden China Girl's" Breach of Promise Action.

"KNEW ALL ABOUT IT."

"I Hope Bride Is as Sorry for Me as I Am for Her," Says
Mona Desmond.

Miss Eugenia Terry is going to marry Clifford R. Hendrix at 6 o'clock to-night in spite of the $100,000 breach of promise suit brought against the bridegroom by Mona Desmond, "the Dresden China Girl."

And when the ceremony and the honeymoon are over the pair will go to live at Larchmont in the palace that Miss Desmond claims was built for her and according to her specifications.

Miss Terry, daughter of the late Major John D. Terry, lives with her mother and her brother, Frederick, at No. 300 Central Park West. Just a little further north, at No. 370, lives Miss Desmond with her mother. And over at No. 14 East 56th Street is the bachelor home of Mr. Hendrix, stock broker, financier and recently navy officer.

Miss Desmond—that is her stage name, the one in the legal papers being Maud Ceballos—says in her complaint that Mr. Hendrix proposed to her last August and told her in February that it was all off because she could not bear children.

The story she told to a reporter, however, was a bit different from the complaint.

"I only hope," she said in sugar tones, "that the girl is as sorry for me as I am for her. Cliff—Mr. Hendrix met her after he was engaged to me."

"The 'Dresden China Girl' passed and looked dreamily at the tinted ceiling of her boudoir. (It harmonizes with her negligee.) She was still thinking of the other girl.

"I'll tell you about Cliff—Mr. Hendrix and me," she went on. "He first met me about ten years ago when I was in the 'Wizard of Oz,' and he was oh, so ardent. But we had a lovers' quarrel and just for spite I married Mr. Ceballos. He was—"

"But aren't you Mrs. Ceballos?" the reporter interrupted.

"Mrs. Ceballos," she said. "He was an actor. We got along all right until Cliff—Mr. Hendrix—re-entered my life and broke up my home. We were together constantly after that. Cliff—Mr. Hendrix and I."

She consulted the ceiling again and announced:

"It's always the women who pay."

Anyway, Clifford Hendrix says he won't.

"These things always happen before a marriage," Mr. Hendrix said, "and generally the man settles to hush the thing up. I refused to settle. Of course Miss Terry knew all about it."

That is what Miss Terry's brother said, too. He declared his sister and his mother and he himself had known all about it and had expected the suit. It would not make any difference about the wedding plans.

The ceremony is to be performed this evening at the home of the bride's mother by the Rev. Dr. Richmond of St. Louis, an old friend of the family. The guests will be friends and relatives of the couple.

Miss Terry's father was a Major in the Civil War and won the Congressional Medal of Honor. Afterward he was for fifty years chief clerk of the New York Custom House.

Miss—Mrs. Ceballos was once the wife of J. Reed Fuller, son of a Chicago millionaire, having eloped with him in 1904. She was co-defendant in a divorce suit brought by Edna May, the actress, against her first husband, Fred J. Titus.

MASONS OFFER TO BUILD HOSPITAL TIED UP BY STRIKE

Members of All Classes Volunteer to "Work With Hands" on Memorial.

Letters were piled high on the desk of Grand Secretary Robert Kenworthy in Masonic Hall this morning, and although they have not all been read as yet, it is already evident that most of them are from Masons who volunteer "the labor of our hands" to build the Masonic Soldiers and Sailors Memorial Hospital in Utica, which has been held up by strikes.

It has not been decided whether this remarkable offer can be accepted. There is a question of practicability. But a meeting will be held soon to set on the offer, and many believe the thing will be done.

The movement was started on Wednesday at the 129th convention of the Grand Lodge of New York when Supreme Court Justice Scudder of Brooklyn made a dramatic appeal. He said that strikes were menacing the great task at Utica and that it was up to the members of the order as individuals to go to work. He asked for volunteers and every one of the 1,100 present arose.

These were men of all professions, not all of them capable of the skilled building arts, but each promised to serve as he could. "The real work, however, probably will be done—of the offer is accepted—by trained building trades workers who are members of the order."

It was said at the Masonic Hall to-day that the order has 25,000 members in this State, and that they include men of practically every trade and profession. There was no question of the possibility of recruiting from their ranks enough qualified men.

Justice Scudder's appeal was earnestly supported by Grand Master William F. Farnum.

MADMAN FELLED BY MOB AFTER HE SLAYS 1, STABS 3

Runs Wild Among Women and Children, Brandishing
Shears and Knife.

BIG CROWD IN CHASE.

Slasher, Beaten to Ground, Is Saved by Police From East Side Throng.

Philip Cooper, thirty-six, a tailor of No. 2555 Prospect Avenue, the Bronx, was walking in Seward Park, on the East Side this morning, when a number of boys began teasing him. Cooper drew a pair of ten-inch tailor shears and a knife and attacked his tormentors.

Immediately the packed park was in an uproar. Women with baby carriages fled screaming "Maniac! Maniac!" The boys ran with Cooper after them, stabbing right and left at any one he passed.

Morris Ninkowsky, fifty years old, superintendent of the building in which is printed the Socialist newspaper Forward, at No. 156 East Broadway, was the first victim. Cooper stabbed him in the heart with the shears, and Ninkowsky died a few minutes later in the Beth Israel Hospital. The dead man lived at No. 194 Pulaski Street, Brooklyn, and was one of the founders of Forward. At the office of that publication it was said this afternoon there is some ground for the belief that the attack on Ninkowsky was part of a plan to hold him up, as it has been his custom for years to pass through Seward Park Friday morning on his way from the bank to the office with the weekly payroll for the newspaper's staff.

As Cooper stabbed Ninkowsky Joseph Saul of No. 91-2 Essex Street grappled with the madman. Cooper bent him off with knife and shears. Saul seized on overcoat from a passerby and attempted to use it as a bludgeon. This too failed, and Saul then attacked Cooper with a cane, which broke after the second blow and Saul was thrown off his feet. Cooper started to attack him, but was prevented by A. Strohelski of No. 105 Essex Street, and turned east, brandishing his knife and shouting threats.

At the East Broadway entrance to the park the alleged maniac jumped on a passing auto driven by Lewis Katz, No. 244 Rodney Street, Brooklyn, and stabbed Katz twice, in the thigh and in the arm. Katz was taken to the Gouverneur Hospital.

Dropping off the automobile, Cooper then stalked Morris Lubinsky, No. 244 East Third Street, in the right leg as the latter tried to dodge him. Samuel Lipmann, No. 14 Jefferson Street, was the next and last victim. Cooper bit Lipmann's right arm and slashed his left arm as Lipmann tried to escape.

Meantime the crowd had become dense and yelling "Maniac! Maniac!" took up the pursuit of Cooper. At Division and Essex Streets some one felled him with an iron bar and the pursuers attacked the prostrate man with sticks, stones and their boot-heels until Patrolman J. J. E. Hopkins of the Madison Street Station drew his revolver and rushed to protect the crazy man.

When reserves from the Madison Street Station arrived and pushed back the angry crowd, Cooper, whose face and head were bleeding, sat up and pulled out a pocket mirror to examine his own injuries.

"Oh, not so bad," he exclaimed. A moment after he pulled out his watch and seeing it had stopped, asked one of the policemen the time. He was taken to Bellevue Hospital, where it was reported that he had a bad scalp wound and bruises over his chest and body, but was otherwise unharmed.

HYLAN AND LA GUARDIA SAY THEY ARE NOT AFRAID OF JAIL IN STATEN ISLAND CAR CASE

Willing to Be Imprisoned Rather Than Refuse to Hear Pleas of Public in 8-Cent Fare Protest—
Craig Warns Against Haste.

After being informed by Comptroller Craig that hasty action by the city against the eight-cent fare mandate in Staten Island might result in contempt of Federal Judge Thos. I. Chatfield's order supplemental to the appointment of Capt. John J. Kuhn as receiver for the Richmond Light and Railroad Company, Mayor Hylan and Aldermanic President L. Guardia to-day declared they were willing to go to jail rather than refuse to hear the pleas of the people in a crisis.

CONEY ISLAND BAN ON BARE LEGS AND AIRY BATHING SUITS

Long List of "Don'ts" Announced
—The Season Will Open
Next Saturday.

POLICE Capt. Byron Sackett of Coney Island came out of a week-long conference with Inspector Joseph Conboy to-day and, with an eye to the fact that the Coney season opens full blast when Luna Park gets going on May 15, announced that:

Bare legged women will not be tolerated.

Women bathers must wear stockings—no socks.

One-piece bathing suits are forbidden, both for men and women.

Skirts (bathing suit) must come to the knees.

Walking through the streets in bathing suits is forbidden.

Playing handball or baseball in bathing suits is also verboten.

Capt. Sackett will have 150 policemen this year. Traffic cops, he says, will be posted 100 feet apart in Surf Avenue, eight or ten men will be mounted. Eight policemen will guard the morals of the young.

That particular part of the court order to which Comptroller Craig called attention, warning the Estimate Board to move cautiously, reads as follows:

"That all persons, individuals, firms and corporations are hereby restrained and enjoined from interfering with, attaching, levying upon or in any manner whatsoever disturbing any operation, or management of the property or premises of which said temporary receiver is hereby appointed, or in any way interfering with the operation, management or control."

It is contended that this order is so drastic that it might prevent the City of New York through its Corporation Counsel, from applying for an order restraining the eight-cent fare charges in any court but that of Judge Chatfield. The Comptroller cited a somewhat similar situation in Ohio.

President La Guardia moved that the Commissioner of Plant and Structures, the Police and Fire Commissioners and all other department heads of the city be authorized by the Board of Estimate to forthwith place all available vehicles in their possession at the disposal of the people of Staten Island, whether they be patrol wagons, ambulances or hose carts.

The La Guardia resolution was set aside temporarily on the statement of Corporation Counsel O'Brien that he wished for time to look into the court order.

Grover Whalen, Commissioner of Plant and Structures, wrote the Board that the increase in fares on the Richmond line means that the increase in revenue will be $240,000 at the strip ticket rate or $288,000 at the eight-cent fare rate, whereas the increase in the pay of the men will be but $60,000. He further asserted that on Monday the Public Service Com-

Verdict Against Third Avenue Railroad for Hot Steel That Destroyed Sight.

Henry Yooe Jr., three-year-old plaintiff in a suit for damages against the Third Avenue Railroad Company, won a verdict for $20,000 in Supreme Court to-day. The father brought suit to recover for loss of the child's eye and a separate suit to recover his expenses for medical services. The jury awarded the father $300.

It was brought out in the testimony that the child's left eye was destroyed by a hot steel particle thrown off from a boring machine working on the tracks of the Third Avenue Railroad Company at 103d Street and Third Avenue, April 12, 1917. The baby, then three months old, was being wheeled in his carriage by his mother.
